A photograph of the front of a steam locomotive, mounted in a dark frame. The locomotive is painted a dark blue-grey color with horizontal ribbing. A nameplate with the word "ADLER" in raised, light-colored letters is mounted on the front. The boiler is flanked by two large, curved, light-colored metal structures, likely part of the smokestack or chimney. The background shows a forested area and a utility tower. The entire scene is captured in a photograph that is itself mounted in a dark, possibly black, frame.
